DIOCESE OF ARLINGTON

READING/LANGUAGE ARTS PHILOSOPHY (Literacy/English)

The language arts program is the foundation of academic instruction in the Catholic elementary school. Retaining our Catholic identity is critical in the selection of reading and writing materials that we utilize with the students. Success in all areas of learning relies on competency in the four areas of language: reading, writing, speaking and listening. In working toward this goal, recognition of varying learning styles, developmental levels and teaching methods, including the use of technology, is essential.

Language mastery best develops when a program provides systematic and sequential skills instruction along with the opportunity to interact with a variety of literary genres. Familiarity with the scope and sequence of skills as well as with an assortment of materials is a requirement for successful instruction.

The implementation of a sound language arts program must be carefully formulated, articulated and integrated into each content area of the curriculum. This approach will help to build confidence and support for each student.

READING/LANGUAGE ARTS INSTRUCTIONAL PRINCIPLES

1. The reading/language arts program incorporates the receptive language arts:
 - A. listening
 - B. reading

AND

the expressive language arts:

 - A. speaking
 - B. writing.
 - 1.1 Instruction in the four reading/language arts areas is always integrated among the four areas.
 - 1.2 Modeling is an important form of classroom support for literacy learning.
2. Reading/language arts instruction is integrated and may include isolated skill instruction, when appropriate.
 - 2.1 Reading and writing are taught together.
 - 2.2 Vocabulary can be taught in isolation, as well as in the context of the reading/writing selection of various subject areas.
 - 2.3 Spelling is taught in the context of phonics and vocabulary instruction.
3. Reading/ language arts skills are taught in grades K through 8 on a daily basis.
4. Reading/language arts skills are applied in all the curriculum areas daily.
5. Reading/language arts skills incorporate the concept of metacognition. Students are encouraged to self-correct, to develop habits of mind and study skills that foster independent thinking, and to employ strategies for higher order thinking skills.
6. Written composition emerges from the reading/language arts program. It is essential in every subject area.
 - 6.1 Instruction in written composition includes writing practical assignments (answers to questions, reports, papers, etc.) as well as creative writing.

- 6.2 Grammar and writing mechanics are taught in context as well as through formal instruction and practice.
- 6.3 Journal writing should take place on a regular basis.
- 6.4 Content area teachers bear the responsibility to teach students the writing styles and patterns of their particular subject.
- 6.5 The librarian/media specialist will support research skills taught by the classroom teacher by providing resources, expertise and guidance to the students and teachers.

- 7. Quality literature appropriate to the child's maturity and developmental level forms a basis for an effective reading/language arts program.

Reading is a life-long means of learning and personal enjoyment.

- 7.1 Teachers at all grade levels and in all subject areas should read regularly to students from different genres.
- 7.2 Students are required to spend some time each day reading silently.
- 7.3 Instruction in the use of the library and book selection is integrated into the reading/language arts program.

- 8. Use of technology and media is incorporated into the reading/language arts instruction.

- 9. Reading/language arts instruction includes evaluation of television, movies, live theater, and other visual media.

TECHNOLOGY

R/L.6.11 The student will explore the uses of available technology in the reading/language arts program.

READING/LANGUAGE ARTS CURRICULUM

Grade 7

Seventh grade students will recognize and apply the integration of language arts daily. Skills will be modeled by the teacher and practiced by the student. Students will begin formal study of the elements of literature. Students will be using developmentally appropriate materials to foster fluency, expression and comprehension.

The following key should guide you in planning your curriculum as you see what is (N) new to students entering your grade, what you will be (E) expanding on from the previous year, what materials they should (M) master by the end of the year, and finally, material that they have mastered in past years and you should hold them (A) accountable to knowing in their current grade.
